WE NOMINATE

Walter Lowrie, one of this community's most stimulating senior-citizens and an Episcopalian priest once described by the president of Princeton Theological Seminary as "the greatest living alumnus" of that Presbyterian institution, who this past week—on his 89th birthday—was honored with the publication of a 241-page volume, "Dr. Lowrie of Princeton & Rome." The work of nine outstanding scholars, each of whom has written a critical essay that helps etch a composite picture of a many-sided career, the book was originally planned as a birthday surprise "in acknowledgment of its authors' debts." A year ago, when Lowrie suddenly fell ill, he was told of the plans and was subsequently invited to write "retorts courteous" to his appraisers.

The result is a happy addition to Princeton annals, a volume combining the subject's tongue-in-cheek comments with evaluations of his life's work. Among the distinguishing features of the book, edited by the late Alexander C. Zabriskie, Dean of the Protestant Episcopal Seminary in Virginia, and Howard A. Johnson, Canon Theologian of the Cathedral of St. John The Divine, New York, is the Lowrie-prepared bibliography, that lists 38 books and 59 major articles in learned journals. In an accompanying note, Lowrie points out that "the Editor required me" to make the listing, belittles his literary achievements and characteristically states, "My output comes to barely 12 items a year, one a month, in the course of a long and misspent life."

Lowrie, active secretary of Princeton University's Class of 1890 and an 1893 graduate of Princeton Seminary, served nearly a quarter-century as rector of St. Paul's-within-the-Walls in Rome and in 1930 reckoned that "he was superannuated and ought to retire." While his so-called retirement has been punctuated by the publication of 27 volumes in as many years, and his fame in large measure rests on his interpretation of the life and writings of the Danish theologian and philosopher, Soren Kierkegaard, Lowrie's role as an "apostle of European thought" was accentuated by his ill-starred efforts to acquaint the English-reading world with the writings of Nobel Prizeman Albert Schweitzer.

Some four decades back, as German legions were ready to goose-step into Belgium, Lowrie prepared Schweitzer's "The Mystery of the Kingdom of God" for publication. "Thereby hangs a story strange and sad," Lowrie recalls. "This book, the first translation of a work by Schweitzer, was ready for publication just when World War I broke out. Dodd, Mead & Company were horrified at having a German author on their list, and, without telling me, without stopping to reflect that the name Schweitzer indicates a Swiss and that Albert Schweitzer was actually a Frenchman, got rid of the whole edition by selling it to a jobber, who sold it to department stores for 10 cents a copy, which in turn got rid of it at 25 cents a copy."

For personifying the "vast erudition and sparkling wit" that stamp a man as a great and also persuasive teacher; for meriting such distinctions as knighthood in Denmark, the Gold Medal of Italy and honorary degrees in his native land; for his noteworthy contributions to Biblical interpretation, theology and Christian social ethics; he is TOWN TOPICS' nominee for

"HOT POTATO" (S)HDEDOWN

Planning Board's "Baby." One of the "hottest potatoes" ever handled by the Princeton Township Committee, judging from reactions of the 100-plus crowd it lured into Township Hall almost a month ago, will be handed back to the Township Planning Board for a series of important public hearings at 8 p.m. next Monday. At that time, board members will consider the fate of acreage north and west of the residential Edgerstoune section—an outcome being eyed with interest by residents of the entire Princeton community as well as the specific section involved.

Jean Labatut, chairman of the board, and his fellow planning group participants have not taken a public stand on the issue at stake to date, though observers feel confident that preliminary discussions and other indications point to approval of the three hand-in-glove proposals which will face the board Monday evening. If this be true, the recommendations will then be forwarded to the Township Committee for final hearings, and concerned citizens will be given still another opportunity to voice their pros and cons — presumably at the Committee's regular May 13 session.

Two letters this past week to the Planning Board — one from Edward A. MacMillan, president of the Edgerstoune Corporation, and the other from Gen. Robert W. Johnson — have helped clarify the controversial subject-matter now before the planning group. In fact, the clear, concise terms of these letters may go a long way toward lifting the "veil of secrecy" which allegedly clouded the early stages of "laissez-faire Edgerstoune," and may well remove any stumbling blocks between Monday's meeting and final passage of the proposals.

It would appear, on the surface at least, that up-to-now agitated residents of the Edgerstoune section and surrounding neighborhoods have little to gain and much to lose by objecting to the recommendations urged by Mr. MacMillan and Gen. Johnson. Surely, if the proposals are knocked down by the Planning Board and/or the Township Committee, there will remain the distinct and undesirable possibility that a road-artery linking Stockton Street and Rosedale Road via Edgerstoune and Russell Roads may be authorized in the future.

Stipulations of Letters. In his all-inclusive message to the board, Mr. MacMillan, writing for the corporation, requested that the board take the following action at its May 6 meeting:

(1) Recommend to the Township Committee that the 50-foot wide strip of land extending from the northerly perimeter of the traffic circle at the northern end of Edgerstoune Road to Rosedale Road be vacated as a public road. (At the Committee's April session, it had been pointed out that the "paper road" might not be the Township's to vacate, but apparently this legal loophole has been plugged).

(2) Recommend to the Township Committee that the gift offers by the Edgerstoune Corporation of some 50 acres bounding Stony Brook, plus the acreage involved in the presumably vacated "paper road," and by Gen. Johnson of a 3.5-acre tract lying between Rosedale Road and the two Edgerstoune tracts, be accepted in accordance with their terms.

(3) Approve a revised final plan of subdivision of the remaining Edgerstoune lands, it being understood that this revised plan shall not be used for the subdivision unless the two above recommendations have been endorsed by June 30. (It is implied, in this request, that the Edgerstoune Corporation will subdivide its property bounding the brook, if the above gifts are not accepted).

In their two letters, both dated April 26, Mr. MacMillan and Gen. Johnson stipulated firmly that "no nuisance shall be permitted to be created" on any of the gift-land being offered, adding that all the tracts "shall be used only for public park or public street purposes, except that no parking area or buildings of any kind shall be constructed, installed or maintained thereon."

Gen. Johnson, who has been noted for his long-range thoughts regarding Township expansion, concluded his letter by stating: "This offer is being made in furtherance of the same aims that I had in mind when I made my gift to the Township in 1955 (acreage just north of Rosedale which is contemplated as a future school site). As you know, I believe that unspoiled water courses, such as this brook, should be made available for public recreational and conservational purposes wherever possible, and I am happy to be able to make a further portion of brook-frontage so available. I also believe that, if the proper authorities should decide at some future time that a roadway should be constructed along the edge of the brook in aid of the community's traffic problems, this land should also be available for that purpose."

'Green Belt' Concept. Commenting on Gen. Johnson's idea, one Township official said this week he doubted very much if the Township would accept the gifts unless the possibility of a future link between Stockton and Rosedale, along and over the brook, existed. He agreed that the acreage in question will serve as excellent recreational land for Township residents, but doubted if Township taxpayers would want to designate any general funds for development of the area as an elaborate park.

Residents and planners interested in backing acceptance of the sizeable land-gifts emphasized two important points: (1) If they are not endorsed, the Township will lose all possible chance of extending a so-called "green belt" around the municipality from

"Johnson Park," north of Rosedale, south along Stony Brook almost to Stockton and (2) it is about the only way to seal off the likelihood of an "unthinkable" artery through the Edgerstoune section.

In their letters, Mr. MacMillan and Gen. Johnson made it clear that a "thru-road" is not expected in the near future — and a heavy-duty road is never anticipated — but they said they did not want to eliminate the possibility of a light-duty link across their gift property, if it ever becomes vital.

This, then, is the "package deal" which Mayor Ralph S. Mason mentioned, albeit not without misgivings, at the Committee's last meeting. It has been neatly wrapped by the givers since that stormy night, and it might be that a minimum of unwrapping will be required before the Township welcomes it with open arms.

PERSONALITIES

Peter V. Gardner, 20 Edwards Place, whose appointment this week as head coach of rowing at Dartmouth caps a standout career in the sport made more noteworthy by the fact that he had never pulled an oar before entering college. Captain in 1949 and an assistant to Delos "Dutch" Schoch for the past seven seasons, he goes to Hanover next fall to lead a move calculated to place crew on a par with other sports at the New Hampshire institution. The 33-year old father of two thus joins Jim Rathschmidt, coach of Yale's Olympic champions, as a Princeton-trained coach handing the rowing fortunes at another Ivy institution.

Dr. Alpheus T. Mason, Edgehill Street, McCormick Professor of Jurisprudence at Princeton University, who this past week received one of three $5,000 "Liberty and Justice Book Awards," presented for the first time by the American Library Association from a grant made possible by the Fund for the Republic. Dr. Mason's book, "Harlan Fiske Stone: Pillar of the Law," was selected by the award judges (including Dr. Julian P. Boyd, 120 Broadmead) as being the most outstanding among recently-published works in the field of history and biography making "distinguished contributions to the American tradition of liberty and justice."

ROUND-UP

Hailstorms are a rarity in Princeton, and they don't linger long when they finally come . . . but it's tough to catch Princetonians napping, as evidenced by the number of cocktail glasses extended from windows and doors during the brief fall of those mothball-sized hailstones last Sunday afternoon . . . speaking of falling, Town Topics was just kidding about the vulnerability of the Public Library, closed this week end for linoleum repairs on its floors . . . actually, there isn't even enough weighty material in all the books in the library to bend its sturdy floor beams . . . here's one for the books, though: a Town Topics photographer found his schedule a bit jammed on Tuesday and wound up on the terrace of the Princeton Inn with two convening groups ready to be photographed at the same time . . . after their lines had been drawn, the Equitable Insurancemen curiously posed before the representatives of American Potash & Chemical Company who manufacture deadly poisons.

Most people mix doughnuts with coffee, but Town Topics mixes Coffee with Coffee . . . on page 13, for instance, Miss Elinor Coffee is pictured as a spring fever victim and, on page 6, the same young lady is billed as "The Sleeping Beauty" . . . Gallup & Robinson's financial report for the fiscal year ending March 31, just released, makes excellent reading for prospective employees as well as the 70-plus people already working for the noted Princeton research organization . . . all G & R regulars are receiving a 15% bonus (or seven weeks' extra salary) for their 1956-57 efforts, while key personnel are picking up an amount over and above 25% of a year's salary, paid into pension and profit-sharing trusts . . . Other sweet music, for the new off-Broadway production, "Livin' the Life," based on the Mississippi River stories of Mark Twain, is the handiwork of Jack Urbont, who two years ago was Town Topics' music critic while a graduate student at the University.

Congratulations . . . to Charlie Caldwell, Princeton's affable and now-hospitalized football coach, for an "all-clear" report on a series of thorough tests . . . to Miss Mary Evelyn Kyle, former Princetonian (presently a New Brunswickite), for composing a snappy jingle and winning a Mercury commuter station wagon and a guest-appearance trip to the Ed Sullivan TV Show . . . to Irving W. Mershon, real estate and insurance veteran, on the 70th anniversary of the O. H. Hubbard Agency, which he has managed for the past 39 years . . . to these "high honor roll" students for the third marking period at Princeton High School: Christana Beurling and Elizabeth Maple (grade 12), John Gillen and Carol Jones (grade 11), Dale Anderson, Sally Ann Mather and Ronald Morgan (grade 10), Nancy DeVore and Laura Wick (grade 9).

ON TOP OF THE SITUATION: Fritz Mock, son of Mrs. Kenneth Kassler of Lafayette Road, towers above the passing scenery on his "Ordinary Bicycle," a vehicle popular in the 1880's and a forerunner of the modern "Safety Bicycle." Designed with a five-foot front wheel for greater peddling leverage, the Ordinary Bike puts the six-foot tall Mock's line of vistion some nine feet off the ground, as shown at left. The late Charles M. Kassler, Mock's step-grandfather, was the original owner of the machine, which he rode in Denver in his 'teens. Young Mock, a 15-year-old sixth former at Country Day School, is currently practicing for this year's Alumni Reunion P-Rade, where he intends to ride with Mr. Kassler's Class of '27.

TOPICS Of the Town

DOWNTOWN DILEMMA

Parking a Real Puzzler. The critical Princeton problem of downtown parking — a subject of considerable concern to many organized groups, not to mention the parkers—may be solved in part during the week ahead. At least, it is due to receive a lot of special attention which may prove a balm; or, it may prove more balmy than balm to some people.

An indication of things to come was signalled last week when the young but energetic Mayor's Advisory Committee on Parking and Traffic met behind "closed doors" with Mayor Sturges and members of Borough Council. A spokesman for the Borough said the press would be briefed over the weekend and afforded an interview session on parking last Monday. But the briefing and interview never developed.

Apparently, certain ideas proposed by the citizens' committee, headed by ex-Councilman Richard W. Colman, did not jibe with the current parking aims of the recently-revived Princeton Business Association, which has sent representatives to meetings with the committee and the mayor. The committee may have been prepared to fill in the press, only to have its thoughts swayed—perhaps temporarily — by the wishes of the PBA.

A spokesman for the businessmen's group told TOWN TOPICS that he believes the mayor's committee is concerned primarily with the problem of placing all-day parkers rather than the problem of downtown parking on Friday nights, the principal plea of the PBA at this point. "Trouble is," he noted, "we only have one business association man on the mayor's committee. It's a conscientious group, but it is loaded with businessmen who have a lot of employees with all-day parking woes. The needs of the downtown merchants are being inadequately expressed."

As TOWN TOPICS went to press with this issue, there was a good chance that the promised briefing and interview session might be held in a matter of hours. There was also a possibility that the merchants' problems as well as the matter of all-day parking might be in line for partial solution, though PBA men came away from last week's meetings doubting the possibility. And Borough officials continued to point to the expense and difficulty of changing downtown meter signs to give special Friday night directions—and the further difficulty of enforcing these directions if they are okayed.

One thing was sure. The PBA, with another full-blown get-together scheduled for the Colonial Room of the Nassau Tavern at 8 p.m. next Monday, will devote discussion time to the ever-pressing problem of all-day vs. short-term parking. Also, according to Loar Quickle, association president, the membership will consider an advertising campaign to promote its cause, including the possibility of cooperative advertising by PBA members.

Get Undar (Not In) Bed!

Fortunately for a number of Princeton area residents, Monday's Civil Defense exercise was a make-believe effair, for too many Princetonians definitely were not ready and, in case of the real McCoy, would have been dead ducks. Procedures were changed this time, explaining some of the confusion, but the changes must be absorbed at once, as they have been effected to protect citizens agains radioactive "fallouts."

On the debit side, several policemen held up traffic too quickly, thus preventing some motorists from seeking shelter. Quite a few neighborhood wardens did not know where to go or what to do. A lot of people, having missed well-publicized stories of the "alert," thought the sirens meant a fire alarm. One individual actually phoned Borough Hall and asked, "Shall I go to bed?" (The caller was told to crawl under it). Still others paid no attention and roamed the streets.

On the positive side, most law enforcement officers, including reserve patrolmen, knew their jobs as did most wardens. Princeton Hospital's crew was well-organized, ready to handle any emergency in case of a real raid. The town's volunteer radio system, supervised by Arthur S. Weatneat Jr., performed capably and maintained control over the exercise. Above all, the majority of Princetonians followed instructions and placed themselves in positions of relative safety.

compound fracture of the right leg.

The driver of the car was Miss Elsie L. Croll, 78, of 40 Bayard Lane. Miss Croll told police that she was ettempting to back away from the curb but mistakenly placed the car in forward gear. When she stepped on the accelerator, it went over the curb and pinned the Howland boy against a tree.

Miss Croll was given a summons for careless driving. Patrolmen Theodore Lewis and Robert McAvenia investigated.

Mrs. Kopp Still "Critical." Mrs. Isabelle Kopp, 79, of 43 Wiggins, who was struck down by a car on Wiggins Street two weeks ago, remained in "critical" condition at Princeton Hospital this week.

The two small sisters, Deborah, 2, and Darlene, 4, who were injured in another Easter holiday accident when a neighbor backed over them, have returned home, both in "very satisfactory" condition. The youngsters are the daughters of Mr. and Mrs. William Swanhart, 4B Edgemere.

"CAN'T HOLD THE LINE"

Higher Telephone Rates Asked. Seeking to increase annual gross operating revenues by five per cent, the New Jersey Bell Telephone Company this week applied to the State Public Utilities Commission for general rate increases. Now subject to review by the Commission, the revenue boost is the first to be sought by New Jersey Bell since 1949.

While charges on toll calls will remain unchanged, the basic monthly rates for business and residence telephones will be raised substantially under the proposed schedules. According to the telephone company, the boosts are designed to produce some $14,148,000 in additional gross revenue per year.

As outlined in the new schedules the monthly rate for business telephones would be raised from $8 to $9.20 while residential phones would be hiked from the present $4.10 to $4.50. Two-party business phones would be raised to $7.45 from $6.50 and two-party residence phones from $3.35 to $3.60.

Four-party residence phones would become $3.10 rather than the present $2.85. All of these figures are subject to the usual 10 per cent federal tax paid by the user.

"New Jersey Bell has been subject to the same inflationary pressures which have brought about the highest costs, both in labor and material, in the history of the nation," the telephone company stated in announcing its request. "The company now finds it no longer possible to hold the line."

Despite the fact that improvement and expansions programs since World War II alone have cost the company over $700,000,000, increases in the basic monthly rates have amounted to only 22 per cent since 1925. Of the $14 million anticipated in additional income through the rate boosts, New Jersey Bell hopes to realize six and a half million, or less than half, after taxes.

Legion Picks Parade Leaders. American Legion Post 76 has selected its Memorial Day committee. Under co-chairmen Robert C. Schmidt and Col. Donald W. Griffin, the committee will arrange for the Legion's annual parade.

Wilson Coan will be parade marshall and Harold M. Hinkson will be in charge of the color guard and firing squad. William Birch and Henry Robertiello will make arrangements for distinguished guests, while Henry Frank, Ellwood Blydenburgh and George Cahill will coordinate grave decorating ceremonies.

Other members with specific parade duties are D. Don Richards, public relations; Rev. Guy Bensinger, chaplains; Eric Jungburg and Elmer Greey, parade assembly; Peter J. McCrohan, po-

SUCCESS FOR SAVOYARDS

"Pirates" Pleases Princetonians. Princetonians who missed the initial performances of "The Pirates of Penzance" last week still have two chances to make up for it. The Gilbert and Sullivan comic opera will be given by the Savoyards of Princeton at a matinee at 2:30 Saturday and at 8:30 the same evening in McCarter.

If Gilbert & Sullivan fans respond as they should, the two performances Saturday will be played to near-capacity houses, because the Savoyards' presentation of the well-known and well-loved work is both fresh and exciting.

It is an amateur performance, to be sure, and it is noticeable, particularly in the quality of the voices of the soloists. But it is also an amateur performance in that it is obvious from the first curtain that this production is being staged by those who have loved every minute working with it and can transmit their joy in the songs and the happy, fanciful plot to the audience.

The production has followed the D'Oyly Carte traditions faithfully with great success. The 22-piece orchestra is a credit to the original score, and the costumes, sets and staging follow the directions left by Gilbert himself.

Robert M. Weun, a graduate student at Princeton, receives most of the laurels for his professional direction, along with William R. Memmott who conducted the orchestra. "Pirates" was produced by T. Leslie Shear, with J. Robert Hillier providing a particularly stunning set for the second act and a nice rocky sea shore for the first.

The main parts are acted and sung by Maurice Cion as the Major-General; Dale Bell as the Pirate King; Richard Weeder as Frederic; Virginia Heddinger as Ruth; William Lockwood as the Sergeant of the Police; and Rochelle Erb as Mabel. They are all excellent, and if any of them is praised above the others, it should be Miss Erb for the particularly beautiful rendering of her entrance aria.

Smaller parts were acted by Henry Thomas, Janet Thorsen, Mary Strunsky and Joan Bugher. The chorus, consisting of students from Westminster Choir College, Princeton University, the High School, Miss Fine's School and others, sang well and looked respectively comic, handsome and lovely as the policemen, pirates and General Stanley's daughters.

COMMUNITY PLAYERS

Better Luck Next Time. Once upon a time there was a reviewer of plays for TOWN TOPICS who admittedly was not very fond of Henrik Ibsen's stage efforts in general, "The Master Builder" in particular. He guessed that this 65-year-old "classic" was not terribly important to the Scandinavians 65 years ago, and therefore should mean a lot less to Princetonians—even "dressed up" in modern dress—some 65 springs later.

Temporarily undismayed, the reviewer journeyed down Alexander Street to The Playmill, encouraged a bit by the fact that the Princeton Community Players chartered their new home on a successful note a month or so ago. But his fear of Ibsen was soon justified. "Builder," a pretty tedious piece of soul-searching in the most competent of professional hands, seemed unbearable —and unnecessary — as a determined but decidedly unsatisfactory effort.

It has become depressing enough to sit and watch television and realize that would-be actors and actresses are reading their lines from a Teleprompter without much animation. It would seem reasonable to expect that one could go to the theatre and get away from such drab goings-on, since there are no Teleprompters for true thespians to use as crutches. However, Mr. Ibsen's drab play has so affected the Community Players—a number of them with considerable hidden talent, we'll wager—that they have fallen prey to his unhappy spell — and they might as well be reeding from those TV "idiot aids."

Lamentably, or perhaps fortunately, the TOWN TOPICS' aisle-sitter leaned outside The Playmill for a breath of fresh air between Acts 1 and 2 (or maybe it was Acts 2 and 3), only to be swept dramatically away to Princeton Junction by the omnipresent Pennsylvanie Railroad "dinky." So he was unable to determine whether the Players lived happily ever after with playwright Ibsen (and he's afraid to ask).

Princeton has come to admire and appreciate the work of the Community Players in recent years, and certainly should rate better treatment then the current production down on Alexander Street. For that matter, the Players themselves should demand better material with which to work—and please their public —than "Builder." Congratulations to them for the "old college try" in our old college town, but better luck next time!

For those who might like to challenge TOWN TOPICS' critique and find out what the Players are up to, "Builder" will be repeated at 8:30 p.m. this Thursday, Friday and Saturday at The Playmill. Tickets can be purchased at the University Store, or at the box office before each performance. (There will be no advance charge for theatregoers boarding the "dinky" at an unscheduled stop.)

THEATRE INTIME

An Unusual Experiment. "The Caine Mutiny Court Martial," directed by James Kraft, will open a nine-night run at 8:30 o'clock this Thursday in Murray Theatre on the University campus. For Theatre Intime, which traditionally has produced the classics or lesser-known works, presentation of this tense courtroom drama will mark an unusual experiment.

The recent Broadway success will be played almost entirely on Murray's apron stage, thus lending the offering an even greater sense of immediacy and tension. Its Intime cast will feature many new faces, including Henry Stackpole as Maryk, Mike Jones as Keefer and Greg Farrell as Greenwald. Veterans in the cast will be Kraft as Willie Keith, Jim Harder as Queeg and Fred W. Wardenburg as Dr. Bird.

The story of the drama deals with the possibility of legal mu-

Though wholly imaginary, the incident is given its realism through the fact that it could happen under the same circumstances as those described in the play, but that nevertheless the imposition of justice on the mutineers may involve grave injustice to the former captain of the vessel.

Tickets for all performances, scheduled for 8:30 p.m. May 2 through 11 (except Sunday), are available at the University Store (5414) and also may be obtained prior to each show at the Murray box office. Prices: $1.20 and $1.50. Monday through Thursday, and $1.50 and $1.80, Fridays and Saturdays.

Miss Coffee Wins Scholarship. Elinor Coffee, a seventeen-year-old Lawrenceville resident who will be featured in the leading role of the Princeton Ballet Society's production of "The Sleeping Beauty" May 9 and 10, has been awarded a scholarship to Jacob's Pillow for the summer. Jacob's Pillow is Ted Shawn's University of the Dance at Lee, Mass.

A student of Audree Estey, director of the ballet society, for some 12 years, Miss Coffee is the third society member to win such a scholarship. Janet Findley and Barbara Dilley are the other of Mrs. Estey's pupils to be honored in the past.

Miss Coffee has appeared in every production given by the Ballet Society as part of the Children's Entertainment Series. In addition to her leading role in the current production, she has also been featured in "Peter and the wolf," "Cinderella" and "Nutcracker."

Miss Coffee is currently serving as president of the Modern Dance Club at Princeton High School, where she will graduate in June. She hopes to pursue her dancing studies next fall at Juilliard School of Dance in New York.

Tickets for Tschaikowsky's "The Sleeping Beauty," to be presented at McCarter Theatre as the final production of the Borough Elementary School's Entertainment Series, may be obtained in the following manner:

Tickets for the Thursday performance, scheduled for 3:30 p.m., may be obtained from Mrs. A. A. Austen, 10 Princeton Avenue. Friday evening tickets are currently on sale in the Princeton University Store. The McCarter box office will be open on the days of the performances.

Aparri Program Announced. The Aparri Dancers will perform a unique series of sequences revolving around the Shakespearean fantasy, "As You Like It," in their forthcoming program at the High School next Saturday, May 11, at 8 p.m. Composed by Frank Lewin of Princeton, the score was first heard last summer when the University Players staged the same drama.

The selections from "As You Like It" will augment a rendition of "The Art of Ballet" featuring Mila Gibbons, directress of the dance ensemble, who will demonstrate French and Russian technique. In addition, individual dancers will interpret various Schubert waltzes and another group will perform a Mozart ballet, "Love and Mischief."

Numbers which comprise the "As You Like It" series include Touchstone's Dance, the Pastorale and a General Dance in which four pairs of couples take part. Harry Lacey will take the role of Touchstone while Helen Maurer will play the part of Audrey, his amoureuse.

IT'S NEW To Us

Admiral to Zenith. The next time you run out of ice cubes, go to the new Princeton Appliance Shop next to the Acme in the Shopping Center and buy a little thing they have there that costs $469 (manufacturer's list) but is now on a Month-of-May special for $325. Delivered to your door.

This is a cabinet finished in walnut color (the manufacturer says mahogany, but we say walnut) so that it resembles a big TV set. Open the door and you'll find a complete refrigerator with a freezer that holds 48 pounds or six trays of ice-cubes.

Pull out what looks like a four-inch-deep drawer that runs across the top. It's a two-burner electric stove. You can even buy a model only six inches wider that has the burners running front to back instead of across the front, and a real sink alongside.

Marvelious for an office, says Princeton Appliance, or a small apartment. Your children will probably say "Wow, let's get one for the playroom!" After that, you're on your own.

This new appliance store has anything you want, regardless of size (coffee pot or freezer), make (infinity), or color(a recent customer ordered a yellow left-handed refrigerator).

There are washers by RCA-Whirlpool, Speed Queen, Easy; refrigerators by Philco, Hotpoint, Admiral; dishwashers, air-conditioners, (from $135) portable television sets (from $89); standard TV's.

Many of these brands and models are on display in the new store. All the rest—and Princeton Appliance emphasizes "all"—can be ordered from warehouses.

In addition to its vast selection, Princeton Appliance offers what it considers its most important service, which is "service." Authorized, factory-trained service specialists are on tap for any brand of any appliance you own. Call the store at 1-7075 between 9 a.m. and 9 p.m. and you'll get your specialist at the drop of a short circuit.

This applies not only to appliances bought at the store, but to a 50-year -old washing machine you inherited from grandmother.

"You can have the best appliance in the world," says Ray the Manager, "but if it doesn't work . . ."

By the Beautiful Sea. Beach towels herald the summer as the crocus announces spring. Stone's Linen Shop, 20 Nassau, presents a choice of choice ones.

Stripes in browns and yellows, or pink, blue and black enliven one big beach towel. Another series shows off some pure-bred dogs in royal blue and red. The dogs are arranged for show: poodle, Dalmatian, Doberman, setter. A towel called "Regatta" races sand-colored boats against a blue ground (red with grey). Calloway is in charge. Prices are $2.95 for striped towels, $4.95 for dogs or boats.

Garlic Lipstick

Sounds like something a girl might wear if she didn't want to be kissed. Actually, it has nothing to do with lipstick—that name is just a come-on.

Garlic Lip Stick is something you keep in the kitchen cupboard, not the dressing table, and you apply it, not to yourself, but to a good rare steak or a fish. In short—it belongs on a fillet, not a filly.

We found this concoction in a fat tube (65c) at the Nassau Del. on Palmer Square.

It's about three inches long and one inch in diameter and you take off the little cap and right away you know it's really garlic.

Rub it all over the raw steak or fish before you slide it into the broiler—the Lip Stick is about the consistency of soft lipstick.

What we want to know is, can you ever use that broiler again?

Light summer blankets by Chatham are made of orlon and rayon, Springfield's are orlon and wool. These are lovely pastels, all with nylon bindings. An all-nylon blanket comes in stripes of blue or pink with white and a running gold thread.. This one is $14.95, full size.

For the same bed, choose a European goose-down pillow interlined, with a removable zipper case. It's $9.95. On a really cool spring night you'll welcome a dacron-filled comfort with nylon or cotton cover, in pastel floral patterns at $12.95 and up.

Blanket covers for summer are cool cotton plisse with a fresh white eyelet trim. Molly Lilierfeld has a charming one—$10.95 for a single size. Nylon blanket covers are pastel, with a deep four-inch border of white nylon eyelet. All these—infact, anything at all—can be monogrammed at Stone's.

TOO MUCH BAROQUE

"Sameness of Sound" Regretted.

Whatever else may be said about the season's final concert by the Princeton Symphony Orchestra, there was certainly no lack of what is often called Baroque motor energy. Any music on the program which was patently neither Baroque nor neo-Baroque contained at least one movement in which a steady rhythmic drive was the most persuasive musical element.

All such movements were successfully performed, principally because Nicholas Harsanyi, conductor of the Princeton Symphony, established his initial tempos well and sustained them with unflagging energy and precision. The evening's music, however, required a variety of responses from both conductor and orchestra, and it was in the inability of the performing forces to breathe life into this less rigid, metronomically less controlled music that one felt the concert as a whole as being a somewhat substandard affair.

There was an initial risk involved in building a program in which every piece was scored for string orchestra, to the exclusion of woodwinds, brasses and percussion. Had the strings played with sufficient nunnee, with a variety of tone color adaptable to the varying demands of the music, this, together with the additional timbres of oboe and piano, present respectively in the Bach and Bloch works, would have done much to alleviate the general sameness of sound which in fact did prevail.

It was almost impossible, for example, to achieve a real climax in the Bloch Concerto Grosso for String Orchestra and Piano Obbligato. By the time a real effect was required, the strings had already drawn too deeply on their bows, had too often revealed their fullest and richest sound to enable them to crown the climaxes with the necessary extra measure of intensity.

Warren Martin, at the piano, struggled with an instrument too small for its task. A more sonorous bass, a more penetrating upper register would have given to both the Prelude and the Fugue much of the body which those movements lacked.

The one genuine, unsullied treat of the evening was the performance of Robert Bloom, oboe soloist in the Bach C minor Concerto for Oboe and Violin. The piece is perhaps better known in the version for two clavicrs, with the oboe-violin score being a restoration of Bach's original, but missing, version. Mr. Bloom's magnificent tone, completely free from squeaks, clouding, preoccupation with reeds, and any of the dozen problems which beset most oboists, is indeed a thing of beauty, and the Princeton audience responded to it with appropriate enthusiasm.

Although the Sinfonietta, Opus 52 by Albert Roussel is far from being that composer's best work, it did convey the impression that the absence of Roussel's music in today's concert halls is a case of unjustifiable neglect. Honegger, whose music bears a striking resemblance to much of Roussel, has managed to capture a considerably larger audience, but the clarity of Roussel's contrapuntal writing, the novelty of much of his harmony, and the French witticisms which sprinkle his music, often make him at least as attractive a composer.

The Concerto Grosso Opus 6 No. 4 by Handel was the opening work on the program. The orchestra was fresh, the concertino parts nicely handled, and the whole was carried off in satisfactory style.

Houseparties Concert Friday. Works by Bach, Berlioz, Dering, Kodoly, Poulenc, Schubert and Vaughon-Williams will be performed at the annual Houseparties Concert this Friday. It will start at 8:30 in Alexander Hall.

The Princeton University Glee Club will be directed by Carl Weinrich. The concert will mark the final apearance of the Glee Club this season. Tickets at $1 may be bought at the University Store or at the box office on the night of the concert.

Anderson Memorial Concert Set. The Vassar College Choir will join the Princeton University Chapel Choir at the 27th annual concert in memory of Elizabeth Milbank Anderson of New York City. The concert will be held Sunday afternoon, May 12, at 3:30 in the University Chapel.

The program will include Bach's cantata "Christ Lag in Todesbanden" and Mozart's "Davidde Penitente". Carl Weinrich will direct the group and the accompanying orchestra, and Shirlee Emmons, and Marjorie McClung, sopranos, and William McGrath, tenor, will be the soloists.

Tickets can be obtained at the Department of Music, Clio Hall, on the University campus. They will be honored until ten minutes before the concert, when seats will become available to non-ticket holders.

Recital at Westminster. Miss Elvina Truman, a teaching fellow in the Westminster Choir College's piano department, will present a recital Tuesday at 8:15 in the Playhouse of the Choir College. The concert, open to the public, will be a repeat performance of the recital which Miss Truman gave at the National Galleries in her Washington, D.C., debut.

A native of Tulsa, Okla., Miss Truman studied for a number of years with Isabelle Vengerova of New York City. She came to Princeton in 1955 to study with Frances Clark of Westminster and serve as a teaching fellow.

Miss Truman has appeared as soloist with the Chicago Symphony, the Chicago Philharmonic, the Tulsa Philharmonic and the Amarillo Symphony orchestras. In addition to a number of recitals, she has performed over the Mutual and American broadcasting systems.

Her recital Tuesday will include Handel's Suite in E Major, a nocturne, etude and ballade of Chopin, "Poems of the Sea" by Bloch and works by Bartok and Kabalevsky.

SCHOLARSHIP COMMITTEE: Auditioning music for "Dances from As You Like It," the Aparri School Scholarship Committee meets to complete arrangements for the program to be given Saturday, May 11, at Princeton High School. In front are Mrs. Seymour Goodheart and David Levin; behind them are Mrs. Courtland D. Perkins, Harry Lacey, who will dance the role of "Touchstone," and Miss Mila Gibbons, head of the school, who will also appear in a leading part. (Alan Richards Photo)

POLICE LAUDED

Pistol Club Cited. Members of the sponsoring Township Police Pistol Club, already praised officially by the Township Committee, will award pro-marksman badges this Saturday to 35 Princeton youngsters who have participated successfully in a firearms training course that began in February. Some 60 boys started the demanding course three months ago, with just over half of them able to complete it.

In particular, the Committee cited Sgt. Lester Anderson and Patrolman Richard Steiner, who supervised the first annual training program for the Township police department. Each week during the preliminary instruction period of the course, the participants fired five rounds. In the latter stages of the training, they shot 15 rounds every Saturday morning at the National Guard Armory (where sitting and kneeling positions as well as prone are possible).

Ten days ago, at graduation ceremonies, Mayor Ralph S. Mason presented certificates of course completion to the 35 youths who who passed a stiff written examination and qualified with a rifle. James B. Campbell Jr., Township police commissioner, gave shoulder patches to the award-winners, compliments of the National Rifle Association, as parents enjoyed the interesting ceremony.

Pointing out that the federal government has encouraged the training program, Officer Steiner reported this week that the club will sponsor the course again, beginning the first Saturday after Thanksgiving. This spring's successful shooters will be afforded an opportunity to improve their status and all newcomers also will be welcome.

Quo Vadis?

When the St. Georges Society built its fancy new Philadelphia home in 1836, it constructed a handsome pillared front section that would have been the envy of the architects of ancient Greece. The entrance-way stood for 60-plus years until, at the turn of the century, the society's home was vacated and the front section was transported to Princeton to decorate the old Maxwell mansion at 402 Mercer Street, known familiarly as "Mercer Manor."

Time again has marched on so that "Mercer Manor" now is no more—and only the aging but indestructible front section stands picturesquely on the well-known Maxwell homesite. The Institute for Advanced Study, which now owns the property, has high hopes of subdividing the land this summer for additional houses, though it also appreciates the beauty of the pillared artistry.

Anxious to preserve the front section of "Mercer Manor," the Institute has written residents of Philadelphia who are currently restoring old parts of the city, with hopes of sending it back to the place of its birth. But Philadelphia thus far has failed to respond—because it can't find any organization that may have succeeded St. Georges. And the Institute is getting eager—because the structure may have to be torn down soon—unless it can be made to straddle a proposed traffic circle in the subdivision's plans and forget its long-time residential service.

At the graduation exercises, which preceded this Saturday's pro-marksman awards by two weeks, Geoffrey Montagu—who had never tried his hand at firing before—was singled out for "the greatest improvement" and three boys—Raymond S. Agar, Ralph Gutbrodt and William Seyfarth—were credited with 100% on their written tests. Also, the boys elected officers for their own NRA-associated club: Bob Yurcho, 58 Cedar Lane, president; Ted Marrow, 263 John Street, vice-president; Jim Esposito, 9 Harris Road, executive officer (in charge of shooting targets, etc.); Tony Gaylord, 354 Ewing Street, secretary;

SUDDENLY, IT'S SPRING (FEVER): A winsome couple, students Elinor Coffee and George Griggs, admit that the perennial bug, spring fever, has claimed them among its 1957 victims, but they seem perfectly delighted to have been bitten. Here, they enjoy the fever's effects (as well as each other's company) while waiting for another crew race near the Carnegie Lake finish line. Below, they comment on their marvelous malady in response to Question of the Week. (Town Topics Photo by Alan Richards)

Question of the Week

Question: How does "spring fever" affect you, and what do you do to remedy it?

Location: Downtown Princeton on a balmy spring afternoon.

Mrs. Irene Smith, Kingston, employee of Marsh and Company, Druggists: Well, I can get spring fever just about any time of year —even in mid-winter. This time of year, however, it makes me feel like being outside. I really don't feel any different physically, but I certainly do enjoy the season. It's funny, though, how many people come into our store and ask for tonics and things.

Harry Heagy, Lawrenceville, mathematics instructor at the Lawrenceville School: I enjoy the spring very much. It usually makes me feel better physically. I even find it easier to get my work done, mostly because I feel more inclined to work. The weather's so nice I find it very difficult to take the naps I always manage to find time for in the winter.

Miss Mireille Kriz, 46 Bayard Lane, senior at Princeton High School: It's really too hot to think about the question, I think. I will say that it makes it much harder to get my work done. I feel like spending all of my time outside, riding around in the car and playing tennis and soft ball. When it hits you, there is really very little you can do for it.

Mrs. Frank Levin, 113 Magnolia Lane, housewife: It affects me traditionally. I get lazier and lazier as the spring progresses. It makes me want to do nothing. My children try to combat spring fever for me, but only sometimes do they succeed.

David A. Crawford, 231 Riverside Drive, Assistant to the President of Princeton Theological Seminary: Spring fever hasn't hit me yet, but I'm looking forward to it very much. The usual effect is to send me to the Jersey beach to lie in the sun. I really want to get it, so I can ooze up some sunshine. As for remedy, I don't try to combat it at all. I change from coffee to iced tea and take more showers per day, but this provides only temporary relief. I think there is really some psychological factor in it that gives you an excuse for doing less work.

Mrs. Eugenia Sedlar, 279 Ewing Street, employee of Educational Testing Service: I love the spring because it makes me feel good to be alive. It makes me day dream quite a bit. I don't try to avoid the effects of spring at all. I take it as it comes so I can enjoy every minute.

Elinor Coffee, 7 Green Avenue, Lawrenceville, senior at Princeton High School: Spring fever hits me hard every year and makes me feel like relaxing outdoors, just as I am today. Sitting here doing nothing, except lifting my head once each half-hour to watch the finish of a crew race, is my idea of exactly the right cure for spring fever. In fact, I feel so good I may even be ready to dance or go to a party tonight. The fever will take over again tomorrow, however.

George Griggs, Dod Hall, Princeton University, sophomore at the college: I must admit I don't think much about studying these balmy days, though I'm not sure whether to blame the weather or not. I get the same feeling on some pretty cold days, too. However, you know what a young man's fancy turns to in springtime, and I'm no different than the rest in this respect.

What Is It?

Our eyelids feel overweighted, our whole bodies feel lazy when spring fever takes over. But what is it? Is it a lack of vitamins, as one medical authority suggests? Another says spring fever is caused by insufficient calcium in the blood stream. One doctor maintains that it does not exist at all, that it is merely a state of mind. Still another claims it is a mild attack of scurvy. Or is it perhaps a temporary attack of anemia, as some believe?

With the sudden rise of outside temperature, as Dr. H. C. Bazett of the University of Pennsylvania has observed, "the body works harder to eliminate its internal heat. Arteries and capillaries of the skin dilate. They bring more blood to the surface where heat is dissipated by radiation. To meet this sudden increase in the capacity of the blood channels, the body has to manufacture about a quart of new blood — something like 20% of the fluid in the lifestream at that time.

"Plasma forms more quickly than corpuscles. Thus the blood is suddenly diluted. This temporary reduction in the richness of the blood stream . . . is the chief factor in producing that languor which we call spring fever. A feature of the coming of every spring is this increase in the amount of blood within our bodies. The high spring tides of the ocean have their small counterpart in the high tides of our blood streams."

QUIZ PROGRAM

The $64,000 Question. The United Fund agencies of Princeton held an audience participation program last Wednesday night at the high school in which Princetonians were asked that all-important question: "Should we get the money?"

With one blustery exception, the almost unanimous answer was "Yes, and why didn't you ask for more?"

The United Fund tapped about 100 Princetonians representing business firms, service clubs and various geographical areas of Borough and Township. The participants were divided into five panels of about 20 members each and every panel heard two agencies present their budget for 1958.

Following each presentation, the panel members asked frank, searching and often embarrassing questions. Then the agency representatives left the class-room where the hearing was being held, and the panel members decided among themselves "Do we approve this budget or not?"

Disagreement Over YMCA Budget. The hassle of the evening occurred when the YMCA presented its budget to a panel under the chairmenship of John P. Poe, president of the trustees of the United Fund.

The "Y" representatives came equipped with slide projector, screen, and small page-boy who flashed placards as the presentation was made. This production was looked upon with some disfavor by Mr. Poe who finally cut the whole thing short with, "I'm afraid I must ask you to stop. We are not here to listen to promotion material—we want to look at that budget."

Raymond Bowers, president of the "Y", protested that his group merely wanted to inform the panel of its work, but Mr. Poe was adamant and no one ever did see the slides.

After such a beginning, the "Y" members found their panel quite critical of the $6,000 increase sought in the budget. Mr. Poe suggested that the "Y" ask for the sum it got in 1957 and pointed out that Princeton had quite possibly reached a plateau so far as fund-raising was concerned, and that additional money might not be there. No action was taken by the panel on the "Y" budget.

In contrast, most other agencies had a sympathetic audience. The panel that considered the budget of the Princeton Nursery School listened with awe to an account of pennies pinched and marketing lists revised after the U. S. Government stopped the flow of free surplus butter and food costs climbed 3½%.

The same panel, under the questioning of Romeo R. Favreau, found itself involved in what is apparently a delicate medical question: the reluctance of many physicians to use the services of the Visiting Nurse Association unless the doctor has a long personal acquaintance with the work of the particular nurse involved.

Citizens heard members of the Playground Committee explain that Princeton uses only adults as playground directors, although many large cities, including Trenton, are content with high-school students.

Benjamin Shimberg, Playgrounds panel member, expressed the feelings of several other members when he said, "I'd like to see more money contributed to the Playgrounds Committee by the Borough and Township."

Advice for Family Service. After outlining its work by describing a fictional case, the Family Service Agency was told that "You should be more aggressive in asking for money."

Marshall Ammerman questioned Thomas Huntington, Agency president, when Mr. Huntington told of returning to the United Fund some money that was not used. "Are you under the direction of that Fund, or are you your own boss?" Mr. Ammerman wanted to know.

"We regard our association as co-operative," Mr. Huntington explained. "After all, we get our money from them—we have to be under their direction."

"I don't think so," retorted Mr. Ammerman, "I think you should stand up to the Fund and demand more salary money for those professional staff members."

The question of salaries for full-time professionals came up in almost every panel, and the consensus was that social workers, youth group leaders, nursery school and so on, are shockingly underpaid, inadequately covered

HADASSAH'S HEALING HANDS

Hadassah, the Women's Zionist Organization of America, supports and staffs non-sectarian medical facilities in Israel. In its seven hospitals and network of health stations and clinics, and in the research laboratories of the Hadassah University Medical School in Israel, Hadassah specialists work. Trained in the United States on fellowships, they are daily saving lives, widening the frontiers of science and helping the citizens of Israel, a sister democracy, to help themselves.

by insurance and without sufficient retirement protection.

In the Nursery School panel, for example, members learned that some teaching assistants were paid 65c an hour, and one housewife exclaimed, "But I pay my cleaning woman $1.25!"

Ostensibly, last Wednesday's program was held so that agencies could ask for community approval of their budgets. Actually, most panel members seemed to feel that the panel device is a way of acquainting Princetonians with the agencies that serve them, and the people who took part agreed in most cases that the device is successful.

"It was an informative evening," said Mrs. Jess Epstein, who served on the Princeton Hospital panel. "I knew very little about the running of the hospital until tonight, and I feel that I've learned a great deal."

YWCA Plans Annual Banquet. Mrs. Heath Licklider and Mrs. Douglass Griggs are directing the final arrangements for the annual Mother-Daughter Banquet sponsored by the Y-Teen Department of the Princeton YWCA. The dinner is set for next Thursday, May 9, at 6:30 at the First Presbyterian Church.

Assisting the co-chairman of the program committee are Y-Teen members Carla Johnson, Marion Vlastos, Wynola Smith, Adelaide Thompson, Elsheth Glockner, Monetta Harris and Helen Sweeney. Mrs. Werner Blumenthal is in charge of decorations, with Julin Sommerville assisting.

Mrs. Warthen Byrd and Mrs. P. J. Cobb are coordinating sale of tickets which must be reserved before Tuesday (1-2133-W) or by calling at 4 Green Street. All Y-Teen members and their mothers are invited to attend.

Farm Club Plans Corn Survey. In cooperation with 15 other New Jersey high school chapters, the Princeton High School branch of the Future Farmers of America will breed corn as its annual project.

Under the direction of Glenn E. Underwood advisor, the FFA has selected a one-acre plot on the Somerville Road where it will plant two varieties of corn in June in order to produce a special hybrid. Drew Holman is president of the Princeton group.

Meyners To Aid Antique Sale. Governor and Mrs. Meyner will serve as patrons of an antique sale at Basking Ridge on May 15 to 17.

A total of 24 dealers from six states will exhibit their wares. On exhibit will be 18th century furniture, a varied jewelry collection, antique silver, Chinese glass and ivory, European bibelots, china, lamps and pictures.

It's New To Us

Just go and look, without a thought for your wallet, at the Alencon lace table cloths from France, delicately and exquisitely made in softest beige. Stone's displays them over pale pink to excellent advantage.

There are cloths from 45 inches square to six yards long, and runners, and place mats. Napkins to match have a frame or a corner of lace with linen, and they come in four different sizes.

Come down to earth and buy a pastel print Celebrity plastic travel kit for $1.50 to $5.95. They are zip or pouch style, fitted with unbreakable bottles.

Slick Silk. The smoothness and suppleness of silk has been paired with the texture of linen to make some pleasant ensembles at Rosette Pennington. Here in the Shopping Center shop there are silk print blouses and shirts, some of them sleeveless stripes ($7.95) some of them full-blown florals in springtime colors like yellow, green or lilac.

The floral prints have silk skirts that match identically. But you may have, if you wish, a straight linen skirt in pale powder blue, purple or yellow—shades that will combine with any of the blouses.

And to keep it all dry—a raincoat that's washable. These coats come in sky blue, brilliant coral or natural, they have matching hats and they are $25.

Going out some spring evening? Here's a flame chiffon with narrow straps above a folded bodice ($85) and a white chiffon with big soft pink peonies and a wine-red velvet bow hanging down the back ($65). Youthful party-goers will love the grown-up look of palest ice blue silk organza over a pink slip, the whole package tied with a pink velvet sash. (Lots of white graduation dresses here, too).

The designer collection at Rosette Pennington includes some fabulous dresses by Oleg Cassini in which black braid has been used with art and style. A charcoal linen sheath has a deep white bib with wide black scroll work done in braid and black buttons.

Larry Aldrich presents an ice-blue linen sheath with a flat bow sewed to the high bodice. Its streamers touch the hem. M. Nadler turns his back on the sheath and designs a gored circular skirt dress with short cuffed sleeves, tiny round collar, and flat bow in the middle of the front. It's in a relaxed shade of medium green.

Beachcomb this summer in Tina Leser's bathing suit. It has blue embroidery on the long-waisted white bodice and a skirt with permanent pleats so fine they look like the underside of a mushroom.

If you're a modest size 16, you'll like a black bathing suit with a wide skirt. Anybody, any size will like a suit with flaring, skidt-like leg. It's white eyelet over pas-tel.

Honey Bunch. Did you know that honey made in north Jersey tastes different from honey made in South Jersey? We have this on authority of the Nassau Delicatessen on Palmer Square, where 89 different honies honeycomb the shelves.

Here is thick, dark, mottled Queen Bee honey from South Africa, creamy thick honey from New Zealand, and the clear paleness of alfalfa, orange blossom and heather honey. Israel's "Garden of Samaria" honey stands next to eucalyptus honey and honey from the West Indies. Cherry blossoms, fireweed, heather—after all, a bee can make honey out of anything.

The Italians make peperoni out of giant red and yellow peppers that look unmagnified. They are about seven inches long, packed in vinegar in a re-usable jar.

French Market coffee comes from New Orleans and it's prepared with the chicory that New Orleans citizens like. Comes in the usual grinds, and also instant. You can buy instant Turkish coffee, too. Spice Islands offers it for people who likes coffee so strong it doesn't need a cup.

DOUBLEHEADERS SET

Houseparty Guests on Hand. Princeton athletic teams will stage a variety of events this weekend for the entertainment of Spring Houseparty crowds. A full afternoon's activity will be offered at both University Field and Palmer Stadium, with an important tennis match also set for the Church Courts just outside the Stadium.

Saturday's first event is an Eastern League baseball game at University Field at 1 o'clock, with Harvard furnishing the opposition. The Cantabs will make a doubleheader out of the occasion by bringing their lacrosse team here for a game on the same field at 4 o'clock.

Yale's varsity and freshman track teams will participate in dual meets against Princeton on a simultaneous basis, starting at 2 in the Stadium. The tennis match, figured to go a long way toward deciding the Eastern Association title, will begin at 2:30.

Princeton's golfers invade New Haven for a tough match against Yale, while the crew takes on Harvard, M.I.T., Boston University and Dartmouth on the Charles River at Cambridge. The Compton Cup, with Princeton defending, will be at stake. On the Schuylkill River at Philadelphia, the all-conquering 150-lb. crew will go against Navy and Pennsylvania.

A Real Stretch Run. Rarely in its four decades of rowing history has Carnegie Lake been the scene of as fine a driving finish as the Princeton crew staged Saturday in retaining the Childs Cup. Almost a full length back of Pennsylvania with a quarter-mile to go, the Tigers made up the deficit with a dozen feet to spare.

It was a tremendous achievement, one not often equalled in college rowing. Princeton hit the finish line at 40 strokes to the minute, a beat that had been maintained for the last 50 yards. Two or three members of the crew keeled over from exhaustion the moment the race was over, but recovery followed quickly. The time of 8:56 (against a stiff cross-wind) set a course record for the mile and three-quarters in the Childs Cup.

Columbia also rowed but was never in contention, finishing six lengths back. Penn took the jayvee race by a little better than half a length but the Princeton freshmen finished more than three lengths in front.

The 150-lb. crew won from Cornell, Penn and Columbia in that order, with the Ithacans chasing the Orange and Black across the line in near record time. The victors covered the Henley distance in 6:31.6, just three-fifths of a second over the course record. They, too, had to come from behind, catching Cornell after a ding-dong affair that had seen the Ithacans and Tigers in the lead on three separate occasions.

A total of 11 Princeton crews were in the water Saturday, a new high in the sport. They rowed 21 opponents and finished ahead of 17 of them, a fine achievement for the Nassau Navy.

Ball Team Drops Two More. A continued scoring drought that has produced an average of less than two runs in the last five games has dropped Princeton out of contention for the Eastern Baseball League title. The Tigers had been figured to give Yale a run for its money as defending champion but have now lost their first three games in the circuit and cannot hope to gain even a tie for first.

Inferior pitching and a tendency to fail to come up with the smart play have also hampered the Tigers. Why all three of the team's top hurlers should lose their touch simultaneously remains a mystery, but last week's defeats by N.Y.U. (3-1) and Columbia (6-1) were traceable largely to the belting Ed Seaman, Leigh Ford and Herm Belz took on the mound.

Seaman got as far as two down in the ninth before he lost his slim 1-0 lead, yielding a single, two walks and a bases-loaded triple. He had two strikes on three batters but never could rack up the third.

Ford was hit hard and left the Columbia game in the sixth on the short end of a 3-0 count. Princeton picked up its lone run in the bottom half of that inning, but Belz gave up a tally in each of the three rounds he worked as the two pitchers gave up a total of 10 hits good for 14 bases.

AIMING TO TURN THE TIDE: Pitcher Ivan Riddick (right) and Alan Ammerman have their sights set on Princeton High School's first baseball victory. Riddick is expected to develop into the Little Tigers' top hurler, while Ammerman, who is both a catcher and first baseman, is the team's leading hitter. (Alan Richards Photo)

Other Sports. The lacrosse team had no trouble with Dartmouth, scoring six times in the first period to earn its second Ivy League triumph, 11 to 1, Harvard figures to provide no great obstacle this weekend, setting the Yale game at New Haven on May 11 as the contest that will decided the championship.

The tennis team got by Columbia and Army with the loss of only a single match, but may have more than it can handle this week against Harvard. The golfers blanked Rutgers and Harvard, 7-0, but Yale is likely to be too tough for the Tigers on the New Haven course.

Harvard won the first dual meet in track with the Crimson in 22 years, but sophomore Rod Zwirner ran a 4:16.4 mile to brighten the future in this event. That time and his 9:24 clocking in the two mile were both meet records.

In rugby, not an official Princeton sport, but approved by the Department of Athletics, Princeton whipped Yale, 15 to 3. Among the Elis players were a couple of extremely familiar names: Dennis McGill and Al Ward, halfbacks on last fall's Ivy champions.

"A GAME OF INCHES"

Little Tigers Lose Again. Princeton High School's battling baseball team, surely on the verge of victory, will send a revamped lineup against Long Branch High in the shore city this Friday in an effort to come up with victory No. 1 of the young 1957 season. The Little Tigers got within an eyelash of upsetting unbeaten Trenton High in Trenton on Monday afternoon only to fall for the third straight time by a 5-4 score.

For the tussle with the Branchers, Coach Harry Zoll will pull a surprise by switching Alan Ammerman, considered his sole catcher at the start of the season, to first base in place of Steve Hogarty, a disappointment at the plate to date. Joe Chibbaro will try his hand at receiving, with Bill Smith taking over at short for Roger Morgan, another light-hitting performer so far. Freshman Jack Hawkins will get his first starting assignment on the mound.

The loss in Trenton, turly "a game of inches" as far as the losers were concerned, appeared to be all-Princeton for five and a half innings. Pitcher Ivan Riddick was rolling along with a 4-2 advantage and seemed to have everything under control. Then, with one down in the sixth, he permitted a sharp single and two straight walks, causing Zoll to yank him. Veteran Harold Phox came in for Riddick and, after walking one run home, caused the second out via an infield fly. Another single suddenly resulted in two more runs and THS' winning 5-4 edge.

Princeton's lead margin might well have been more than two runs going into the ill-fated sixth. In the third, for instance, a line drive by Riddick that should have meant lots of trouble bounced off the umpire toward third base—a deviation caused by the fact that only one ump showed up for the game and he necessarily was calling balls and strikes behind the pitcher when Riddick's ball struck him. At still another point, a vicious sock by Bob Faherty somehow bounded into the Trenton hurler's glove when it seemed destined to produce more PHS scores.

The Little Tigers outhit their opponents, 6-5, including Dick Borger's first safety in two campaigns. George Wilson picked up a notable plow for PHS, indicating his remainder at third base, and Ammerman continued to meet the ball well, collecting one hit in the seven-inning contest.

PHS Alumni Star in Track. Two Princeton High School graduates did much to aid their teams in the Penn Relays at Franklin Field, Philadelphia, last weekend. Running for Winston-Salem Teachers, Carl Brown '55 was a member of the 480-yard shuttle relay team which won its event, defeating Maryland, Navy and Manhattan. Dick Hall '56, a freshman at Lincoln University, was a member of the sprint medley team which won its section in that event before bowing in the finals.

Country Day Takes Two. With Pony Fraker pitching well to take both decisions, Princeton Country Day School opened its baseball season by trimming

Net Profit Sought

Princeton High School's varsity tennis team, which hasn't finished lower than second in the Central Jersey League since it was organized, will shoot for its first league victories of 1957 against Freehold this Thursday and Asbury Park next Tuesday, both matches on the PHS courts. Coach John Arscott said early this week that he expects to see his group continue its dominating play in the highly competitive league—a position his teams have enjoyed for the decade-plus he has been coaching.

Warming up for the coming duels last week, the Little Tiger netters were outclassed by an ever-strong Trenton High varsity, which does not belong to the Central Jersey organization, by a 7½-1½ count, and were able to defeat another non-member, Somerville High, by a 3-1 margin. Fritz Marston, PHS' No. 2 man, was the lone winner in the first engagement, while Bill Pfitzinger, No. 1, and Pete Epstein, No. 3, took singles tests and Pfitzinger teamed with Marston for a doubles triumph against the Pioneers.

Along with Pfitzinger, Marston and Epstein, Coach Arscott will use Winslow Marston, John Fine and Davis Young in the Little Tigers' fourth, fifth and sixth positions in future matches.

Sports In Princeton

Lawrence Junior High, 9-5, and the Peddie School juniors, 12 to 2. Both games were played away from home.

The Blue and White broke away from a 3-all deadlock against Lawrence Junior High with a five-run outburst in the second. The victors made only five hits in the contest but the home team chipped in with seven errors.

A three-run first took care of Peddie, with Country Day pushing four more across in the third. Webb Harrison, PCD short-stop, scored four times in the game, which did not see the losers cross the plate until the fifth—the final inning.

GROWING PAINS

Hun Tries Lacrosse. Inspired by Hawley Waterman, Hun School's Maryland-bred football coach who knows how to play baseball but thinks New Jersey prepsters should learn to handle lacrosse sticks as well as Maryland schoolboys, the Princeton prep school has added lacrosse to its sports curriculum. And Waterman, with only one year of prep school lacrosse behind him, has volunteered to teach the sport, with the honest observation that "we can all learn together."

Last week, the Johnny Huns opened a five-game, first-season lacrosse schedule by losing to Peddie School's varsity, 11-4. It was the second outing of the spring for the Hightstown club, which boasts a number of experienced players. "We don't have more than two or three boys with any knowledge of the game, and we don't even have a full line of equipment, so I'm pretty pleased with our opening showing," the Hun coach declared.

Goals for the defeated Red and Black team were scored by Co-Captains Walt Kiernan (2) and Parker Leimbach (1), a pair of lacrossemen with some experience, and Bill Foss of Pennington, a second string attackman. Those who started against Peddie for Hun were Robert Bricken, Kiernan and Dave Applegate of Princeton at attack, Doug Kerr of Princeton, Jim DeLong and Warner Haupth at midfield, Leimbach, Roy Sadi and Joe Hatfield at defense and Jimmy Fox in the goal. Paul Stelger, another Princetonian, saw duty as Hun's No. 2 goalie.

Following a contest with the Princeton University freshman "B" team this Friday, the Red and Black's 30-man squad will complete the season with two games against Pingry School and a return engagement with Peddie.

A CLOSE RACE

. . . But No Cigar. Entering their first race of the spring last Saturday on the Schuylkill River, Hun School's varsity crew put on a spirited display before bowing to Lower Merion High School, one of the best in the business, by three-fourths of a boat length. The winning eight was clocked in 5:15.3, with the Red & Black right behind at 5:18.0.

Norman Jones rowed stroke for Hun in its first meeting of the spring (it was Lower Merion's third outing), with Frank Oldis in the bow position and Bill Fehr at cox. Also in the boat were Fritz Blaicher, No. 2, Saud Faisal, No. 3, William Leisner, No. 4, Thomas Tilton, No. 5, Jim Campbell, No. 6, and Bill Hagenbuch, No. 7.

In the junior varsity race, Lower Merion's crew defeated its Hun counterpart by one and a half lengths, being timed in 5:39 to Hun's 5:32.

BOWLING NOTES

Following one of the most spirited bowling battles in the memory of Princeton Recreation Center devotees, Belle Mead this week claimed the 1957 title of the Tri-County Firemen's League . . . to finally take the laurels, the visiting firemen won two of three games from runner-up Princeton Engine Company No. 1 in the season's last match, thereby totalling 139 points to 136 for No. 1 . . . on down the line, the loop's other clubs finished as follows: Kingston (120), Blawenburg (100), Princeton Junction (97), Hook & Ladder (95), Rocky Hill (92), Lawrenceville (88), Monmouth Junction (87), Mercer Engine Company No. 3 (85), Dutch Neck (77) and KFD (74) . . . individually, the final top-honor keglers were Frank Scurato, 225, Elmer Von Marter, 212, and Ike DeHart, 211.

This week, all eyes will be centered on action in the Major League, which concludes its season . . . as in the case of the firemen's competition, the Major title will be decided on the last evening of play . . . only last week Frazee's Market (62 points) jumped from third to first place, leaving the Key Shop and Decker's Dairy deadlocked at 60, still close and very much in contention . . . Maurice Gledhill's 248 was high game for the past week, followed by Jim Lewis, 241, Hal Frazee, 216, Nick Sculerati, 206, and George Laird, 201.

In a pair of runaway races, Tiger Garage (114) stretched its commanding lead over Sunbeam (91) in the Princeton "A" League and Nassau Del (109) increased its margin over Nassau Service (82) in the Industrial League . . . high scorers in the "A" loop were Bill Dumble, 223, Pete Costas, 219, Bill Bathie, 200, Joe Roberto, 200, and Bill Sculerati, 200 . . . high scorers in the Industrial were Dan Wengryn, 236, Jake Emmons, 224, Larry Golden, 211, and Walt Wengryn, 203-190.

Cranbury Pharmacy (82), apparently en route to victory in the Princeton Women's Bowling League, picked up four points on the Pin Pushers (70) while the Ten Pins (66) dropped out of third place, now occupied jointly by the Bermudians and Castoro GMC (68 each) . . . lots of eyecatching games in the PWBL, notably Sara Rose, 210, Madeline Donaldson, 202-164, Barbara Danser, 190-152-152, Irma Mihan, 183, Clara Cornell, 177-162, Marge Bloom, 173, Lillian Burrough, 171, Ann Simonson, 169-161, Gladys Wheeler, 168, and Marge Weiland, 166-164 . . . it was much the same story in the Women's Industrial League as Nassau Service (82) gained two points on Decker's Dairy (76) while the West Windsor Lions (68) moved into a third-place tie with Conover Motors . . . not so many high scorers here: Madeline Donaldson, 187, Grace Souders, 172, and Georgie Shuren, 167.

THE PLAYHOUSE

The Young Stranger (May 2-4) is James MacArthur, son of actress Helen Hayes and the late Charles MacArthur, who is indeed young—but no longer a stranger to Hollywood. For, in this stirring story of a 16-year-old high school student who is misunderstood by his ever-entertaining mother and his too-busy executive father, Master MacArthur registers an acting debut that will be remembered for a long time to come. Tenderly, movingly and convincingly, he dramatizes teen-age problems that will be appreciated by every parent of teen-aged children, not to mention the teenagers themselves.

Lending extremely able support to the newcomer's lead are James Daly as his father, a movie producer; Kim Hunter as his high-society mother; James Gregory as the police sergeant in charge of juvenile work; Walt Bissell as the theatre manager with whom "The Young Stranger" becomes involved; and Jeff Silver as the disturbed youngster's companion. In addition to their significant contributions, Robert Dozier's tell-tale touch is very much in the picture, thanks to an admirable job of scriptwriting.

12 Angry Men (May 5-11) are jurors charged with the task of determining the fate of an 18-year-old boy on trial for allegedly murdering his father. Eleven of them are convinced of his guilt for a variety of illogical reasons, while the lone dissenter, played superbly by Henry Fonda, is a strong thinker with enough fortitude to fight each argument and finally win a unanimous "not guilty" verdict. Needless to say, Fonda's assignment is a difficult one, and only excellent acting by him and his different opponents can—and does—make this closely knit story an extremely effective motion picture.

Screenplaywright Reginald Rose and Fonda, the co-producers of "12 Angry Men," are to be congratulated for achieving success by violating several of Hollywood's oldest rules. Their production includes nary a female face and, what's more, most of it takes place in the confines of the jury's room, wherein the camera studies intently human nature through a series of vivid closeups and well-calculated face-to-face shifts. Director Sidney Lumet is responsible for much of the success of this film, as are such brilliant character actors as Lee J. Cobb, Ed Begley and Jack Warden.

THE GARDEN

The Silent World (May 2-4) takes the cinemaddict underwater for most of its eye-catching 86 minutes—to a depth of 247 feet for some scenes—as it covers photographically the oceanic universe, with its strange fauna and flora, amazing fish life and other beneath-the-sea wonders. No professional actors are employed in this true-adventure film, but the exploits of the "aquamen" and the Technicolored photography, directed by Edmond Sechan for Captain Jacques Yves-Cousteau and Louis Malle, are so fine that the motion picture already has won an Academy Award as the "best documentary feature" of 1956, plus a Golden Palm at the Cannes Film Festival. There is something for everyone in this underwater travelogue: an encounter with a herd of sperm whales, the exploration of a sunken freighter in the Gulf of Suez, interesting "run-ins" with various forms of under-sea life, the harrowing suspense when a tropical storm arises, etc., etc.

Nana (May 6-11), in French with English titles, is a spicy two-hour picturization of Emile Zola's novel of social and moral corruption, sin and retribution in France of the Second Empire (1860s), though, of course, it is unable to get by the censors—even those naughty French censors—what Mr. Zola gets to his readers. Despite this defect, if it be a defect, "Nana" is an elaborate, magnificently set and costumed drama, which tells the "Sinderella" tale of an aristocrat who sacrifices family, honor, wealth and position for the love of a music hall courtesan. Charles Boyer and Martine Carol head a fine cast, and the color adds handsomely to all the unhandsome doings.

McCARTER THEATRE

More About Destine. Last week's exciting debut of Jean-Leon Destine, which had McCarter Theatre's customarily sedate audience clapping hands, keeping time with its feet (and combing confetti out of its hair), will be followed with a repeat of three more Caribbean Festivals on the evenings of June 13, 14 and 15—Princeton University's festive Reunion weekend. The third performance, kicking off the run on Thursday night of Reunions, has been added since Destine's return was first announced after last week's SRO appearance.

Managing Director Richard Pleasant, who, as a Princeton alumnus, knows full well the audience potential of Reunion weekend, reported that tickets for the June revivel will go on sale at McCarter's box office (or by mail) immediately, "giving the hundreds who were turned away from the first performance a chance to protect their entrance before the Reunion-Festival ticket rush." The turnout for Destine's single show 10 days ago was the largest for any McCarter event this season.

BUCKS COUNTY PLAYHOUSE

"Heavenly" Musical Set. Cole Porter's "Out of This World," appropriately labeled a "heavenly" musical, will bring gods and goddesses to earth at the Bucks County Playhouse at 8:30 p.m. Saturday, the start of the 1957 season in New Hope and a two-week run for the Porter show. The play will continue through Saturday, May 18, excluding Sundays, with 2 p.m. matinees on Wednesdays and Saturdays (except this Saturday).

A new, streamlined version of the well-known musical, with other of the popular, lilting Porter melodies added, will be scaled to the size of the stage of Bucks, "the most famous summer theatre in America." In the large cast are Bill Chapmen as Jupiter, Bob Shaver as Mercury, Jorie Remus as Juno, Paula Stewart as Helen, Lee Venora as Chloe, and Al Checco, Tom Williams, Marie Santella, William Lutz and Dick Barclay. The staging will be concocted by David Tihmar.

Last season, the Playhouse presented another of Porter's musical plays, the delightful "Paris," with marked success. Hence, this repeat of a Porter musical, with its memorable music.

TRACKMEN WIN

PHS Posts Dual Triumph. Warming up for sterner tests in the Newark scholastic meet this Saturday and the Mercer County championships in Trenton next Wednesday, Coach Win Niles' Princeton High track team captured its first dual engagement of the season on Tuesday against Long Branch High, 61-56. The decision remained in doubt throughout a long afternoon, with PHS trailing most of the time, and it did not become Princeton's until the final event, the javelin throw, a PHS specialty.

Surprisingly, Dick Knowles of the Little Tigers took first in the deciding event, tossing the spear 171 feet 9 inches to 169 feet 5 inches for runner-up Nick Kovalakides, the PHS record-holder who was bothered by a stiff breeze. Captain Kovalakides still managed high-point honors, however, by combining this second-place with victories in the shot put and discus for 13 big markers.

Perhaps the most significant PHS surprises of the day were Knowles' first-place finish in the 100-yard dash, giving him 10 points, and Jim Mather's triumph in the 220. Niles knew his varsity was particularly weak in the dashes and merely "drafted" Knowles, a weight man, and Mather, a pole vaulter, for the heck of it. "We honestly didn't expect to win the meet," the coach confided later, "and I really think those sprints — in which we expected no points — did it for us."

Junior Roddy Pannell turned in Princeton's best performance of the day, broad-jumping 21 feet 11½ inches for a clear-cut first place, and he also wound up third in the high hurdles. Ron Gillette, with a first in the pole vault and second in both hurdles, garnered 11 points, to finish behind Kovalakides in the scoring department, while Jim Henderson and Neil Volweider blew leads in the quarter-mile and 880, respectively, and had to settle for seconds.

Last Friday, in Philadelphia, a mile relay quartet of Henderson, Pannell, Mike Logue and Arthur Barclay carried the Blue and White colors of PHS into the Penn Relays. "We just ran in Philly," Coach Niles explained, dodging the all-important question. "We didn't finish last, so I was satisfied."

Wellesley Club Plans Bazaar. To aid its scholarship fund, the Wellesley Club of Central New Jersey will stage its 11th annual bazaar on Saturday, May 11, at Miss Fine's School. Festivities will get underway at 11 a. m. and will continue until 5 p. m.

Fire engine and pony rides and a special table of treasures have been arranged to please the children. Adults will be attracted by the sale of food and clothing.

Area Students Honored. Miss Rosalind Webster, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence B. Webster of Boudinot Street and a student at Miss Fine's School, has been announced as the winner of a National Merit Scholarship for the next four years. In addition, one Miss Fine's School student and six from Princeton High School have been awarded Certificates of Merit as a result of their showing in the competition.

Miss Webster was one of 700 high school seniors from all over the country to receive a four-year college scholarship under the Merit Program. More than 162,000 seniors from 12,500 high and secondary schools participated in the competition, instituted in 1955 by the Ford Foundation and the Carnegie Corporation.

Those awarded Certificates of Merit, recognition of a place among the 7,500 finalists in the competition, were the following: Miss Eugenia Rudd of Miss Fine's School; John Arscott, Miss Debbie Bodine, Miss Margaret Burrill, Kendal Dodge, Michael Logue and Frank Young, all of Princeton High.

Softball Send-Off

The 1957 edition of the Community Softball League, with eight good teams lined up to participate in the men's division, will launch the summer-long campaign at 6:15 next Tuesday evening on four wide-spread playing fields. Defending champion Nassau Social Club, set to start the season against ASCOP at Marquend Field, will be favored to cop its first contest — with well-healed Huck McCreedy a possible starting hurler—as well as the loop title.

In other games next Tuesday, Frazee's Market will play the Italian-American Sportsmen's Club at Laughlin Field, Pearson's Builders will meet Drake's Plumbing & Heating at Fitzpatrick Field and the Nassau Club will challenge Sannino's Plumbing & Heating at "95" Field. The girls' division of the league, with four teams scheduled to compete, will not begin operations for another week.

Housing Development Grows. Over 90% of the some 100 families now living or planning to live in the newly developed Nassau Estates in Lawrence Township are members of the Princeton academic and business communities, according to J. E. Connor & Co., developers of the project.

Research engineers, attorneys, university professors and others working in Princeton make up the large majority of Nassau Estates residents, Joseph Connor reports. The estates are located on Darrah Lane between Lawrenceville Road and the Princeton Pike.

According to Mr. Connor, prices in the Nassau Estates run some $6,000 lower than for comparable housing in Princeton Township. This variation in price unquestionably accounts to a great extent for the tremendous success of Nassau Estates," he said.

The development brokerage is currently offering large split-level homes with varying brick fronts in the project. These homes contain eight rooms, modern tile bath and two powder rooms. A large recreation room is also included.

Speedy Wins Driving Tourney. Robert Speedy, son of Mr. and Mrs. G. A. Speedy of 24 Gulick Road, was declared winner of the annual Junior Chamber of Commerce Teen-age "Road-e-o" Saturday at the Shopping Center. Speedy, whose 461 out of a possible 500 points set a new record for Princeton competition, finished first in a field of 16 contestants in the written and practical competition.

In second was Curtis Johnson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Walter C. Johnson of 101 Broadmead Road, and the winner of last year's Road-e-o, George Leck, son of Mr. and Mrs. G. W. Leck of Cranbury Road, Princeton Junction, placed third.

Engraved trophies for each of the three winners will be presented by the sponsoring organizations during a Princeton High School assembly meeting. Mr. Speedy will compete for a place in the national contest scheduled for August in Washington, D. C., by entering the state Road-e-o in Red Bank May 18.

Judges for the Princeton contest were Trooper J. S. Rosko, Princeton Barracks of the New Jersey State Police; Patrolman Fred Porter of the Princeton Township Police; Inspector W. B.

In addition to her husband, she is survived by a sister. The service was held at a Cranbury funeral home with the Rev. James Akin of the First Presbyterian Church officiating. Interment was at Westminster Cemetery.

Tractor rides, a fish pond, sponge throwing and china breaking will also be featured at the fair as usual. In addition, Mrs. Erling Dorf will supervise a "make-up" booth providing new faces for a nominal fee.

This year's fair will be preceded by the traditional father-son baseball game with luncheon served on the school lawn at noon. There will also be a country store and other stands and sales for the benefit of the school.

News Of The CHURCHES

Bulletin Notes. Members of the Women's Guild of the Second Presbyterian church will leave from the church at 8 a.m. next Thursday to visit the United Nations buildings in New York. Reservations should be made through Mrs. David S. York by next Monday.

New officers of the First Presbyterian church will be installed at the 11 a.m. services this Sunday. Stanley C. Smoyer is the new president of the Corporation; George W. Loos will be secretary; B. Franklin Bunn, treasurer; Benjamin F. Howell, treasurer of benevolences; and Walter B. Jefferson, Jr., financial secretary.

Kenneth A. Wells has been nominated for a three-year term as member of the Board of Directors of the American Unitarian Association.

The public is invited to a chicken dinner that will be served at the First Baptist church next Thursday from noon until 7 p.m. This Sunday, there will be a covered dish dinner at 11 Quarry Street starting at 1 p.m. Both dinners are for the benefit of the church.

Trinity Episcopal reports an Easter Sunday attendance of 1858 persons at the various services held throughout the day. The Rector, Wardens and Vestrymen presented a silver bowl as a parting present to the Rev. H. Martin P. Davidson who will leave Princeton shortly to assume new duties as rector of St. John's Church, Frostburg, Maryland.

Both the Second and Witherspoon churches have had elders who were women, but they have not been named before by the First church.

Women first gained the right to serve as elders in the northern branch of the Presbyterian church about ten years ago and in 1956 they were accepted as ordained ministers. The southern branch of the church still does not allow women ministers or women elders.

Mrs. Egbert will join the class of 1958, Mrs. Bilheimer, 1959 and Mrs. Roberts 1960. Nine other new elders will be ordained with them on Sunday. They are Robert Cawley, W. Bradford Craig, William S. Dix, Benjamin F. Howell, Manfred J. Piper, Frederick T. Richards, Gerald A. Speedy, David S. Thompson and Paul K. Weimer.

DO-IT-YOURSELF
DECORATOR'S DREAM
for $23,500

This two-story white brick and clapboard has much as it stands for a small family: living room with fireplace, dining room, 3 bedrooms, 1½ baths, full cellar, small but pretty and protected lot, nice neighborhood, accessibility. What it needs can be given with paint, brush, time and energy. Of course, a professional painter can always do the job if you prefer, and it would still, in our opinion, be a good buy.

LOVELY AND LIVABLE

The lovely grounds of this attractive two-story clapboard are so beautifully kept that they give a clue to the house itself. Condition-wise, it could be brand new; charm-wise, it has that happily lived-in feeling, highlighted by a handsome corner fireplace and built-in cupboards and bookshelves. A large room downstairs could be bedroom, playroom or study; upstairs are three nice bedrooms—one is slightly sensational, as, actually, is this house in this location at this price.
